"Marietta married T. Fitch Harwood Jan. 16, 1862 and they went to Bloomington Ill. where they made their home. He was engaged in a lumber business. Their children were Will, Clara, and Harry; another died in early childhood. Will married and had two sons, Fitch and Burr, the latter an idiot.

"The mother was a talented singer but became a little unstable mentally in middle life and died. Burr died a little later. Fitch married and was divorced. A daughter married a dentist and lived in North Carolina. I was able to learn but little of him when in Bloomington in 1938 but had reason to believe there was not much good to know. He was unmarried and spent some time in winter with his daughter. Clara married and had one daughter; we know nothing of her whereabouts at this time (1948). Harry married late and had a son. He died soon after and his wife married again and we know nothing of them. Clara died leaving a young daughter Louise."

7. Lucy Day, daughter of Oliver Day and Diadema Beebe was born on 03 Nov 1787 in Winhall, Bennington Co., Vermont, U.S.A.. She died on 15 Jul 1868 in Holley, Orleans Co., New York, USA.

Notes for Paphiras Beebe:

Sometime after the marriage [of Paphiras Beebe and Lucy Day], Darius Sprague, a friend of the Day family, left Winhall, and took of a claim of land in Western New York near what is now the Village of Holley. He succeeded in clearing up an acre or more of his forest land, and partially completing a log house, before rumors of approaching war between England and the United States were circulated, and becoming frightened at these reports, he returned to Vermont just before hostilities broke out in the War of 1812.

Paphiras Beebe bought out his claim, and about the 1st of March, 1815, started to take possession of his purchase. He was accompanied by his wife, Uncle Oliver Day and three of their children; Alethea, the remaining child, was only a year and three months old; and not being well when they were ready to go, was left behind with her grandfather and grandmother Day. The children who went were Huron, Marietta and Aram; Aram was but six weeks old. Uncle Oliver was unmarried.

Their farm implements and household effects were loaded in a cart, drawn by two yoke of oxen, and a horse and wagon led the procession, and the family cow was tied behind the cart, to provide milk on the journey for the family, and after they reached their destination. There were very few roads in those days, and for much of the the way their only guide was to follow marked trees through the forest. Uncle Oliver would often get impatient at the slow mode of travel, and to relieve the monotony would take Aram in his arms and walk on ahead until he was tired, and if they came to a house or an opening in the forest would stop and wait until the slow procession came up. They were four weeks making the trip, and reached their destination about April 1st, 1815.

The unfinished log house on the land was a poor protection from the cold and storms of early spring, but they set to work at once to better conditions; they made a temporary roof out of bark, stripped from trees, and hung up blankets over the doors and window spaces. At first they had to sleep and sit on the floor, and eat from the chests that had contained their household goods.

[This paragraph written by Lucy Beebe, granddaughter of Paphiras, and may not have been part of the original narrative:] Father's description of their first supper at the new home was interesting. A stump in the year [rear?] was the stove. A hole in the side and one in the top furnished a draft. Grandmother put a kettle of water on top, and made mush. Three of father's undles, Dudley, Oliver & Hardin, came out from Vermont later and settled in Ill., stopping in New York on the way.

After the spring crops were planted, consisting of corn, potatoes and beans, the men folk had a little time to make some rude stools to sit on, and other conveniences. A little later Grandfather Beebe went to Clarkson and bought lumber, out of which he made a table and some chairs.

After they had been settled in the new home about three years, Grandfather & Grandmother Day came to make them a visit, adn brought Alethea with them; she had become so attached to her grandparents that when they left she was lonely and homesick for some time.

The years that followed brought much hard work and hardships, which the present generation knows nothing about. More children were born, until they numbered 12. Paphiras Beebe ws very industrious and a good manager, and was able to give his large family as many advantages as others of his class, at that time.

Page 16 - Sketches of Early Settlers in East Hadden: Jonathan Beebe, the son of Samuel and Mary (Keeney) Beebe of New London was born about 1674. He was 87 years of age at death. He was the first settler in Millington society and settled on the west side of Long Pond of lake in year 1704. Probably that he went to Colchester with some of early New London settlers in that town and was favorably impressed with lands on Long pond and decided to settle there within limits of Hadden East. He was one of the petitioners for Millington society, but was not prominent in town or church affairs.

Page 16 - Sketches of Early Settlers in East Hadden: Jonathan Beebe, the son of Samuel and Mary (Keeney) Beebe of New London was born about 1674. He was 87 years of age at death. He was the first settler in Millington society and settled on the west side of Long Pond of lake in year 1704. Probably that he went to Colchester with some of early New London settlers in that town and was favorably impressed with lands on Long pond and decided to settle there within limits of Hadden East. He was one of the petitioners for Millington society, but was not prominent in town or church affairs.

Notes for Edward Spaulding:

Per RCB (transcribed notes made by Adele (Livingston) Jones)):

Edward Spaulding came to Virginia in or about 1619 with Sir George Yeardley - his brother Edmund Spaulding came too. Edmund later moved to Maryland and founded a branch of the family there. Edward moved to Braintree, Massachusetts and married Margaret. He was declared a freeman on May 13, 1640.

He signed a petition to the Massachusetts Assembly asking for the founding of the town of Chelmsford which was granted May18, 1653 and died in that city on February 26, 1760.

Arrived in the Colonies with Sir Yearly, resided in Virginia abt 1619, Braintree MA. abt 1630, Chelmsford MA abt 1654

Note: Became freeman 13 May, 1640.

In 1618, Lord Delaware was returning to Virginia aboard the Neptune, to resume his office as Governor of the colony. Unfortunately, he died on the way, in Nova Scotia.

Sir George Yeardley, was appointed in Lord De La Warr's place. He sailed for Virginia, January 19, 1619, in a fleet of ships bearing several families immigrating to the Virginia Colony, induced by a promise of prosperity from the company; prior to this time, the colony consisted mostly of males. Edward Spaulding, from Lincolnshire, England, traveled with this group as an indentured servant.

After a "sore voyage" they arrived at Jamestown on April 19, 1619.

On March 22, 1622, following an Indian massacre which devastated the colony, a census was ordered. The census records of February 16, 1623 include in a "List of the Living," both an Edward Spalding (at "James Citie") and an Edmund Spalden (at "Elizabeth Cittie"). Edward is listed in 1623 in a household that includes his wife, son and daughter; Capt Hartt, Mr. Cann; John Helin, wife and two children. His brother, Edmund, is listed as living alone.

The Spalding Memorial was dedicated to these two brothers and their descendants.

They became the progenitors of the large New England Spalding family.

Edward and his family left Jamestown VA and sailed to New England where they settled at Braintree, Massachusetts. His name appears on the list of proprietors of the town in 1640.

He was admitted a freeman, May 13, 1640.

He removed to Wenham, Massachusetts, and afterward was one of th petitioners for the Chelmsford grant, October 1, 1645, and an early settler in that town.

He became a leading citizen. He was selected juryman in 1648.
